

WMNF (88.5) NPR station in Tampa
Florida Virtual School supporters worry about funding listen listen
04/21/09 Seán Kinane
WMNF Evening News Tuesday

Not all students in Florida take all of their courses in a classroom. Many take some or all of their classes online through the Florida Virtual School. But some supporters gathered in Tallahassee today to ask state Legislature not to cut millions of dollars of funding from the online program.

Pam Birtolo, chief learning officer at Florida Virtual School, spoke with WMNF before the rally.

http://s3.amazonaws.com/wmnf/news_story_soundclips/2094/Birtolo_FLVS.mp3